The project will produce educational materials that will provide support in building skills for educators who work / could work with disadvantaged adults in the process of social inclusion.

The materials will be preceded by a self-assessment questionnaire, which will give educators the opportunity to diagnose what knowledge and skills they have and what else they need. The questionnaire will also allow you to select only those training modules that are really needed.

The materials will be prepared based on the best standards, will have a modular structure and will take into account the specifics of adult learners and their needs.

The materials will be tested during a training session. The selection of educators will be based exclusively on substantive criteria, the level of motivation and the desire to get involved.
